

Web Site Evaluation

Your name
Web Site Name
Web Site address
Subject
Grade
Type of resource (delete which is not applicable)	Lesson plan Teacher tool Information site Reference site Current data News source Interactive site Learner study module Learner-centred content Mailing list Worksheets Other (add here)
Currency of Information	Yes	No	Can't tell
Is there an indication of when the information was created or updated?
Is the resource topic likely to become out-dated?
Authority / Credibility of Information	Yes	No	Can't tell
Is there information on the author/producer of the information?
Is there information on the author/producer's credentials / qualifications?
Is there contact information (e.g. email address for author/producer)?
Is the web-site hosted by a reputable organisation?
Accuracy and Scope of Information	Yes	No	Can't tell
Is the information fact or opinion?
If the information is presented as fact, can it be assessed for accuracy (i.e. are there footnotes or references)?
Does the site have original information (as opposed to just having links to information)?
Does the site have links to reliable content (other sites)?
Site Design	Yes	No	Can't tell
Is information easy to find on this site?
What is the quality of images?
Do images enhance the meaning of the text?
Does the site have a search facility?
Complete this section if the site is a learning resource (with activities and not just information)	Yes	No	Can't tell
Are the activities interesting, challenging and likely to absorb learners in meaningful action?
Is the resource learner-centred (where learners actively produce new information rather than just read information and find facts)?
Does this resource have a tutorial included (where learners are guided through explanations)?

What do you think you can do with the resources in a classroom?

Why do you think the resources are reliable and suitable for classroom use?